“The Yes Men Fix the World” is an award-winning documentary that takes a fresh look at the world of ethics and corporate responsibility. In today’s challenging economic climate, society is often critical of major corporations, questioning their ethics. However, there are a number of corporations, in fact most multinational enterprises have a social responsibility policy, a code of ethics, and general ethical guidelines.

Mary L. Sims, J.D., is a professor of corporate ethics for Cumberland County College and other institutions. She will present on issues regarding corporate responsibility and moderate discussion.
