“Love & Bullets” Film Series Features Guest Hosts!

(Cape May, NJ) “This is a first for the Cape May Film Society,” says Joe Stinson, Creative Director for the Cape May Film Society. Every Monday from June 29 through August 3, the Film Society will host a six-part film series, “Love & Bullets.” And for the first time, the series is completely hosted by special guests from the who’s who of Cape May. “When danger spikes and stakes raise, passions flame,” adds Stinson. “This film series captures that passion with great films and hosts who love them.”

- June 29: The Limey (1999), hosted by Wesley Laudeman, Cape May Film Academy Graduate and Instructor
- July 6: La Femme Nikita (1990), hosted by East Lynne Theater’s Gayle Stahlhuth and Lee O’Connor
- July 13: Out of the Past, hosted by Cape May novelist Patricia MacDonald (aka Bourgeau)
- July 20: The Big Easy, hosted by Animal Outreach President Ellen Shaw & WCFA Radio Host Mike Murphy
- July 27: The Thin Man, hosted by Cape May Stage’s Mal & Dottie Knapp
- Aug. 3: Angels with Dirty Faces, hosted by Corbin Cogswell, Film Society Program Chair

The series kicks off on Monday, June 29, at West Cape May Borough Hall starting at 7:00 p.m. with “The Limey.” Cape May Film Academy Graduate and Instructor Wesley Laudeman will present the film, which was nominated for several awards. The film tells the story of a man just out of prison who travels to Los Angeles to find his daughter’s murderer. What he finds is that he’s completely out of place with L.A., and he has to face his own failings as a father. Tickets are $5 for Film Society Members and $10 for Nonmembers. Visit www.capemayfilm.org or call 609-884-6700.

The Cape May Film Society annual Cape May Film Festival has won “Best Film Festival of New Jersey” by the JerseyArts People’s Choice Awards. The Festival is New Jersey’s premiere film festival dedicated to the support and presentation of creative, challenging, groundbreaking, film/video works by New Jersey filmmakers. Cape May Film Academy, the Society’s educational outreach, is the region’s leading educational and cultural resource for youth and adult learners interested in all facets of the cinematic experience.
